

Films

The Bingo Long Traveling All-Stars & Motor Kings (PG)

Based on the novel of the same title by William Brashler, this movie depicts a character loosely based on Satchel Paige who forms his own baseball team after much frustration of dealing with racist team owners and managers.

There Was Always Sun Shining Someplace: Life in the Negro Baseball Leagues

This award winning documentary showcases baseball leagues before Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier and features interviews with some of the Negro League's best players, including Satchel Paige.

Baseball

This nine-part series from filmmaker Ken Burns chronicles over 150 years of baseball history, with in depth narratives about baseball's infamous past. Innings 5 and 6 focus heavily on the Negro Baseball League and the integration of the game.

Soul of the Game (PG-13)

It must have been hard for Satchel Paige to not be the one to integrate the major leagues as Jackie Robinson had done. Featuring an aging Paige character, this movie takes viewers on an emotional journey taking place during post-WWII when major leagues were being integrated.

The Strange Demise of Jim Crow

Told by the people of Houston, TX who lived through the era, The Strange Demise of Jim Crow documents the experiences and opinions of those who knew blatant and overt racism to be an everyday barrier.