Central Library Celebrates DIY Spirit of Local Writers

Third Indie Author Day is Saturday, October 13, 2018

The Buffalo & Erie County Public Library, 1 Lafayette Square, Buffalo will host its third annual Indie Author Day on Saturday, October 13 from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Authors from Erie County are urged to apply to participate in this free showcase by calling 716-858-8050 or emailing communications@buffalolib.org for an application. Space is limited and will be granted on a first come, first served basis.

In a changing literary landscape, independent authors embrace creative freedom, navigate unique challenges and form an integral part of their community. As part of the national effort on October 13 to connect writers with their public libraries, the downtown Central Library will celebrate Indie Author Day by offering local authors in all genres visibility in a tradeshow format. Participating published authors will have table space to discuss their work with readers, sell copies of their books, connect with other local writers and learn more about publishing and marketing options from onsite expert speakers and nationally shared videos.

"Western New York is home to a vibrant literary community, and we want to shine a light on local talent," said Library Director Mary Jean Jakubowski. "The Library is committed to including books by local authors in our collection. Indie Author Day is a very public way to encourage readers, writers and future writers to discover, explore and appreciate our diverse community of hometown authors and their work."

For more information, call 716-858-8900.
