Local Authors and Their Books Showcased in Downtown Library's Saturday Series "Homegrown Authors"

The public is invited to attend the "Homegrown Authors Series" at the downtown Central Library, 1 Lafayette Square, Buffalo on selected Saturdays. Featured authors will discuss their publication in a conversation with the audience. Copies of each book will be available for purchase and signing through Talking Leaves bookstores.

These programs are free and open to the public.

The upcoming schedule for "Homegrown Authors" includes:

Saturday, October 26, 2 p.m.: Buffalo News writer Mark Sommer on his new book Rocky Colavito: Cleveland's Iconic Slugger

Saturday, November 23, 2 p.m.: Phillips Stevens, Jr., Ph.D, on "Africa's Greatest Mysteries"

Saturday, December 28, 2 p.m.: Jason Gusman on his graphic novel Return to Snakeland

The Buffalo & Erie County Public Library offers access to books by WNY writers through the Local Authors Collection, which represents all literary genres, featured at the downtown Central Library. The Central Library also participates in the national "Indie Author Day" project, held earlier this month with 100 local authors.
