Where Else Can I Research Native American Ancestry & History?	13

INTRODUCTION

This guide is designed to assist persons researching Native American genealogy in the Grosvenor Room of the Buffalo and Erie County Public Library. Genealogical handbooks, guides, manuals, indexes to record compilations, atlases, maps, and newspapers serve numerous purposes and can prove to be invaluable resources to all researchers, regardless of their level of expertise.

Nearly everything listed here can be found in the Grosvenor Room (GRO). Material in the Grosvenor Room does not circulate and cannot be removed from the room. In a few cases, there are copies of these books that can be borrowed from the Humanities & Social Sciences (HSS) Department.

Most Native peoples in New York are Iroquois (Haudenosaunee). The Haudenosaunee is a confederacy composed of six nations: Cayuga, Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, Seneca and Tuscarora. Other tribes in New York include the Shinnecock and Poospatuck of Algonquin origin.

If you do not know the tribal affiliation of the ancestors in question, begin with histories of the city, county or area where they lived. These histories will usually describe which Native groups predate European settlement in the area. General tribal histories can be found in the Central Library's general non-fiction area, at the back of the first floor.

Books are listed in call number order. Shelf locations are always subject to change.

CENSUS INDEXES

The Grosvenor Room has print indexes for the New York State portions of the federal census from 1790 to 1870 and 1900 to 1910. For 1880, it has Soundex microfilms. For 1920 and 1930, see the Databases section of this handout.

However, it can be difficult to identify Native Americans in census records if they lived off the reservations. Race is recorded in the federal census from 1820 on, but be aware that census enumerators could choose only between the categories White, Black or Mulatto. Mulatto can indicate someone of European and Native parentage, someone of European and African parentage, or other combinations. The category Indian was first used in the 1870 census.

To learn more about Indians in Federal census records, see the following articles.

This is not true. Most BIA offices do not keep individual Indian records and the BIA does not maintain a national registry. The BIA does not conduct genealogical research for the public.
