Grand Reopening Ceremony At Buffalo's Crane Branch Library

Community Welcomed Back & Funders Acknowledged

---

(Buffalo, NY, Friday, September 22, 2023) - The Buffalo & Erie County Public Library welcomed the community back to the Crane Branch Library at 633 Elmwood Avenue today for its Grand Reopening Celebration. The Library had been closed for the past year while undergoing a major $2.2 million interior and exterior construction improvement project with new mechanics, comfortable furnishing and modern design treatments to better address accessibility and community needs.

"We are so glad to welcome everyone back!" said Library Director John Spears. "For nearly 80 years when the first book borrowing center opened down the block on Elmwood, libraries have played a key role in providing services to this thriving community. The Crane Branch has always been a busy library providing educational, cultural, and community resources to this eclectic neighborhood."

"Everything about the Crane Library is new and exciting, from the layout, to the new elevator, windows, meeting spaces, computer stations, and custom public art sculpture mounted to the front of the building. None of this work would have been possible without the longstanding support of New York State Senator Sean Ryan, Assemblymember Jonathan D. Rivera, the state legislature, and the City of Buffalo," added Spears.

"The renovation of the Crane Branch Library has refreshed one of the oldest and most beloved libraries in Erie County, making it fully accessible and more inviting to ensure it will be able to serve every member of the community for many more years to come. The transformation of this long-time cornerstone of the Elmwood Village is an illustration of the positive impact library construction funding can have on our communities and a testament to the importance of continuing to allocate state funds to projects like this one," said Senator Sean Ryan.

Assemblyman Jonathan Rivera, Erie County Legislative Chairwoman April McCants – Baskin, Deputy Mayor Dr. Callie Johnson, Buffalo Common Council Member Joel Feroletto, Deputy Erie County Executive Lisa Chimera, and artist Ellen Steinfeld were among the attendees.

The construction improvements, the second phase of a three phase project, include:

- New flooring, ceiling, and wall finishes throughout the first and second floors.
- New circulation/information desk.
- Two new flexible meeting/study spaces on the main floor.
- One large meeting space and a smaller room on the second floor to better meet community needs.
- New furnishings including comfy chairs and sitting areas, enhanced lighting, easy to read signage, modern tables, and computer stations.
- New efficient windows replaced original aluminum framed, non-insulated windows.
- The 9 foot Crane bird sculpture on the front of the building was created by local artist Ellen Steinfeld. It is called Knowledge and was selected and commissioned by the Buffalo Arts Commission.
- Installation of a single-story, 100 square foot vestibule was built at the existing service/loading entrance at the rear of the building. This allows for proper egress by extending that path as well as providing a secondary ADA exit from the building.
- Mechanical system improvements and replacements based on the Library's reconfiguration of the lobby, new elevator, and interior space.
- Removal and replacement of old rooftop units which are now set back further from the roof edge to diminish visibility from the street.

Director Spears also introduced the sculptor's artist Ellen Steinfeld and acknowledged the dedication of library staff from the Buildings and Grounds, IT, Public Service, Graphics, and Administration departments. Music was provided by members of the Community Music School.

Fun facts about the James L. Crane Branch Library:

- The Library was named after James Lowrie Crane (July 28, 1877–September 2, 1942) a (Buffalo) District Councilman, lawyer, businessman, and spokesperson for the Elmwood Business Association.
- In 1928, the Elmwood Business Association, two years after its incorporation, went on record as to the need for a library in this community.
- In 1944, the Buffalo Public Library opened the Elmwood Circulating Center, located at 506 Elmwood. It was an experimental unit to sample the reading needs of the community. It provided service to adults only. In its first nine months, over 14,400 books circulated.
- In 1953, the City of Buffalo appropriated $200,000 for construction of a new library. The firm of Backus, Crane and Love was appointed by the City as the architects. David B. Crane, son of James L. Crane, whom the Library was named after, was in charge of designing the building. He died before the building opened.
- On Friday, June 17, 1955, the James L. Crane Branch officially opened right here at 633 Elmwood Avenue at Highland. More than 300 people attended the gathering including members of Crane family.
- When the Library opened in 1955, its shelf capacity was for 18,000 volumes.
